How to Use This Table: Identify the requirement(s) you would like to petition in the top row. Then move down the column to see what types of petitions you can do for that requirement. If it's petitionable, it will indicate "Petition" with eligible reason(s) to petition. If it's not petitionable, it will indicate "N/A." For example, if you want take HNPG150 earlier, you would look at "Acceleration" and see that you can petition to take it earlier because it says "Petition." Under it, it lists multiple eligible reasons to request an acceleration. You should discuss which petition option is the best for you with your designated Honors Counselor depending on what you would like to petition.

(1) Hardship: If you are experiencing hardship in one or more of these categories: mental health, injury, illness, disability, family emergency, or leave of absence, you may petition. Having general stress about completing classes, work, or other general life tasks are not considered hardship.

(2) Course-related conflict: If you have a conflict for any of the following reasons, you may petition only for the options indicated. Please note that for some courses you will need to still enroll in the discussion section for that course. Please note that work schedule conflicts are not an eligible reason.

(a) Major Course Conflict: If you have a conflict with an honors requirement, you may petition only if you cannot take the major course in any other quarter, time slot, or year.

(b) Athletic Schedule Conflict: If you have an offical UCR athletic schedule that conflicts with an Honors requirement you may petition.

(c) Unit Cap Conflict: If you cannot enroll in an Honors course requirement because you are unable to raise your unit cap to accomodate the Honors course, and you cannot drop any of your other courses (as you must take them in that quarter, time, and year), you may petition.

(3) Graduating Late: If you are graduating later than the Spring quarter of your 4th year, you may petition only for the options indicated.

(4) Graduating Early: If you are graduating earlier than the Spring quarter of your 4th year, you may petition only for the options indicated.

(5) Abroad/Experiential opportunities: If you have an abroad/experiential opportunity that conflicts with an Honors requirement, you may petition only for the options indicated.
